

Aislinn Aislinn

Aislinn is a Gen-Z changemaker and SDG Advocate. With a rich academic background and diverse experiences, she's excelled in 29 courses from institutions including the UN System Staff College, the Geneva Centre for Security Policy, and the US Institute of Peace, earning a 'Distinction' in social protection for sustainable development. Beyond academia, Aislinn actively engages with communities locally and internationally, participating in conferences and engaging with policymakers on issues like climate change and international peace. Some of these conferences include UN Security Council CSO Dialogues, UNECE Regional Forum on Sustainable Development, World Circular Economy Forum, etc. As a scholar and researcher, she has presented her work at various international forums, including 9th Annual UNSDSN International Conference on Sustainable Development.

Aislinn is involved in various organizations, including Academic Council on the UN Systems and YOUNGO. She also served as India's Country Coordinator at The Negotiations Hub and as a V-Force Volunteer with UNV, working to enhance youth participation in international negotiations, including COP processes. Simultaneously, she worked with the City One Initiative for upskilling students pan India transforming them into 21st century leaders. Notably, she also organized sessions at G-20 Changemakers Summit during India's presidency in 2023, engaging stakeholders globally.